

TALAMONI - ever striving to be a cut above the rest

With its product customization and eye for competitive prices, Talamoni's offer serves both qualified cutting-line buyers and manufacturers alike - all with a fast and accurate logistics and after-sales service as well as a heightened attention to the kind

Specializing in the production of wheels and heads for cutting glass and ceramics, TALAMONI Srl is well-consolidated today within both the national and international markets - so much so that its footprint now spans Spain, France, Portugal, Russia, Latin America and the Emirates.

THE ONGOING DRIVE FOR VISIBILITY

For its participation in international trade shows -most notably Glasstec and Vitrum- Talamoni keeps its multilingual promotional material constantly updated as it continues to make its voice heard of response speed that can capably answer the unmet needs of its customers.

HISTORY

Founded by a local couple in 1994, Talamoni began its operations in Ornavasso within an area of north Piedmont that's always been dedicated to micro-mechanical processing. As manufacturer of glass processing tools, and numbering such names as Bormioli among its clients, Talamoni has now served the hollow glass sector over a trajectory which has seen it maintaining a craftsmanship that still continues to stand out for its high precision and attention to detail. Indeed it's thanks to Talamoni's product quality and competitive prices over the years that it has become a supplier of choice to various prominent companies within today's glass and ceramic sector.

PRODUCT RANGE

Hard metal tools for glass-cutting are sintered with next generation technologies, offering the customer durability, cutting precision and high quality. An automated solution, the main cutting tables are supported by tungsten carbide wheels. The glass-cutting and engraving wheels are ground with specially-built machines that guarantee constant production batches of optimum quality. Here the castors are available in different sizes, cutting angles and finishes. For manual cutting, Talamoni offers professional oil cutters within a wide range of models born from twenty years of experience in machining hard metal for engraving. Such products have a quality standard that strives to remain uncompromising whilst combining the merits of an artisanal production that's coupled with innovative processing systems. Finally, the company's lubricant oils line for glass cutting guarantees superb lubrication of the glass cut while enhancing wheel longevity.

in such sector magazines as Glass Technology International and Flatglass - as well as in digital marketing campaigns that consistently ensure an active presence on all the main social networks.
